A careening motorcycle threw its two passengers into the sagebrush here Sunday morning, sending one of them to Harbor General Hospital with superficial scalp lacerations, according to Torrance police.
Pilot of the bike, Otto T. Stiefel, 17, of El Monte, was thrown and received scratches and bruises when the gears on the bike locked as it was approaching the intersection of Winlock and Criedlewood in Pacific Hills.
Stiefel's passenger on the bike, Gordon Reynolds, 18, of 23851 Park St., was taken to Harbor General Hospital by South Bay Ambulance. His condition was described as good by hospital attendants Monday. Attendants said he apparently suffered no serious injuries.

Problem of Hog, Dairy Farms Tackled by City

Hog ranches and dairies and what to do about them was the subject under discussion last night by members of the City Planning Commission and a group of ranch and dairy owners.

A committee headed by Robert L. Deisinger called the meeting following a complaint levied by a group of Torrance Gardens homeowners that the stench of rotting garbage and barrage of flies was unbearable.
An investigation by George Powell, land use enforcement officer, led to the discovery of an open pit into which was being dumped the garbage that the pigs did not eat. He said the practice had been stopped.
Councilman Willys G. Blount drew a hearty round of applause from the audience at Tuesday's Council meeting when he urged the Council, "Now that we've started something let's don't just sit here. Let's do something. I've been harping for the past four years that Torrance is a 'big boy now,' and that the hog ranches and dairies must go."
Mayor Mervin M. Schwab said he had taken his wife for a ride the other night and drove past one of the hog ranches, with the result that his wife "didn't appreciate it not one bit."

Raymond Ottoson, chairman of the Torrance Gardens Air Pollution Committee, told the Council he had been invited to attend the meeting last night as a spectator. He said he had not been asked to present any testimony.
